TWO OF A KIND.

Two years ago cold shivers had a disagreeable way of projecting with Demceratic enthusiasm when it was discovered that the tidal wave of that year was due to the stay-st-home Republic an vote. So far as reported this yearnotably in Ohio-even the Republican vote was not full, while the Democratic stay-at-homes were as the leaves of the forest. If the Democratic party will heap of fight in it yet.

A BERSSING IN DISQUISE.

[Henderson Gleauer.] What now appears to be so sore blow to the Democrats may eventually rest, and thirty-one out of thirty-four be a blessing in disguise. The utter rout of the Hill and Tammany machine in New York will eliminate that State as the decisive factor of the Democratic party, and the party will go into the Presidential campaign under western leadership and upon a western platsolidly Republican. The other New form, which promises genuine relief to the people and the party will win a glorious victory. Such a victory would not prove a delusion like those of 1890 and 1892. The lesson is a severe one, but to effect a radical cure the surgeon's knife must be sent to the seat of the

While the Republican victory over the Demoff about 30 per cent., but the State ocratic party was a most decided one, they wiped the Populist party off of the face of the earth. It can be but little satisfaction to the Populists when they witness the disaster brought on the Democratic party that has ever been true to the farming class and poor people of this country, as against the wealthy manufacturers and capitalists. But every thing will eventually right itself, and in the meantime, we can live under the new order of things if

What it Means.

The result in New York and through out the country the 6th showed that government was never more in the hands of the people than it is in America now. That was the moral of the overwhelming defeats sustained by the Harrison Administration, and it is the lesson now when popular discontent with existing administration, local, State and national, has shown itself so emphatically.

The defeat was as truly the work of Democrats as the "landslides" against Harrison were the work of Republicans, The number of independents outside of party organizations has not greatly increased of late, but the increase it the independence of partisans in the last eight years has been phenomenal and it is revolutionizing American pol-

However much we may be disappoint ed in many phases of the result, all Democrats who put the ultimate suc cess of party principle above the sucsess of those who are for the time being party candidates, must rejoice that the stardy individuality which is most Democratic of all Democratic characteristics has so generally manifested itself at time when the future of the country demands the honest thought and patr otic effort of individual devotees principle rather than the subservience to party leaders which, though justified ecasionally by circumstances, is a ways dangerous to the usefulness any party of which it is persistently characteristic. There is no doubt that last Tues day's results are due to Democrats who The changes from one party to the other may have been considerable in some localities, but the general result is due to the fact that Democrats who were not ready to change parties stood aside and allowed the Republicans to do as they pleased at the polls. The Democratic party of the future will be a far better party because of the action of the Democrats who in he half of party principle arrayed them selves yesterday against party bosses who had betrayed or abandoned princi-

Every Democrat must regret that leaders for whom he may feel almost a leadership. That is the most lamentable feature of what is not otherwise a crushing Democratic defeat. In spite of that, however, every Democrat can feel gratified that, regardless of temporary considerations of party, the people animated by the Democratic instinct, there will be an article by Henry W. have shown themselves the governing Fisher, an American writer, describing his experience at Castle Fredensborg in Denmark, where the late Czar used to greater they are than any great man o any number of great men, than any
